DETROIT.

Thanksgiving has become a great home day and people sometimes travel hundreds of miles to gather around the family hearthstones.

Hospitality, gratitude and fraternal love are the fruits of the Thanksgiving festival. The writer hopes that all the readers will enjoy these and more on Thanksgiving Day and so have a very happy time.

Thanksgiving proclamations always are joyful news to epicures and men in general, but they are "crepe hanging days" for barnyard fowl. Thousands of turkeys, ducks and chickens were killed and rushed to market in time for housewives to stuff them with dressing, baste them and have them ready for the table, Thursday, November 25th. A battery of one million knives and forks is entrenched in the city, now awaiting the word of Father Time for the signal to advance, attack and dig in. It will be a thankful day for mankind in general, but a sorrowful one for birdhood.

Rev. C. W. Charles conducted Holy Communion services, Sunday morning, November 7th, at St. John's Episcopal Church, to a large congregation. In the afternoon his sermon was "Debt."

Romans, chapter 13, was read, and it was interesting. Pride leads to destruction. Pride and debt always go hand in hand, we must believe. In wise spending and sane saving, in clean living. We must be honest, industrious and square. Self-control is the very essence of manliness and character. It enables us to march to the front through opposition and misfortune. Any gain that arises from another's loss is unequal.

Rev. Charles also read Proverbs, chapter 12, verses 1 to 22, and II Kings, chapter 17 to 24. How Elisha went to Sarepta, saw the widow woman gathering sticks, how the widow said to Elisha, "Now, by this I know that thou art a man of God, and the word of the Lord in thy mouth is true."

In the closing of the sermon he read one of the Revelation chapters. Religion is the big thing. If we want to be happy we must find the harmony. Prayer is a very powerful aid in helping us to get what we want. Prayer is the tuning fork of the mind. It removes all discord and weakness. It rids us of fear and worry, and anxiety. We do not change God's mind when we pray, we change our own mind and obey the spiritual law of prayers. Our prayers will be answered.

In closing of the service Mrs. Ralph Huhn recited "Jesus, Our Risen King."

Rev. Charles took the afternoon interurban to Flint to hold services there at 9:30. Then he went to Lansing Monday.

Deaf members of the Episcopal Church feel they need a Lay-Reader to conduct a Bible Class and give sermons every Sunday, and a petition started with more than fifty signatures. It read as follows: "We, undersigned members of Ephphatha Episcopal Mission hereby petition that the Rev. Charles, missionary in charge of Ephphatha Episcopal Mission, appoint a new Lay-Reader for our mission, that said appointee be made if a man thoroughly qualified for the work—that he be an expert sign maker and impressive, (that he be of kindly disposition, and will be agreeable to every member—that said Lay-Reader conduct the weekly Bible Class and make his sermons interesting, whereby all will reap greater spiritual benefit."

Rev. Charles stated that he thought it was not necessary to have a Lay-Reader, as we have a Bible class already formed and conducted by ourselves for some time, which is satisfactory.

On Friday afternoon, Rev. Charles met with the committee of the Ladies' Guild at the Parish House, where some of the classes of the Constitution and By-Laws, which the late Rev. Allabach made and formed, were changed. And in the evening a reception was held at the same Parish House in honor of the Rev. Charles. Light refreshments and hot coffee were served. Upon introduction, Rev. Charles gave a humorous story of a husband and wife, which every one enjoyed hugely, and wanted him to give them another story, when he comes again.

Our genial friend, F. P. Gibson, Grand Secretary, Chicago N. F. S. D., Headquarters, was in Detroit surprising the frats at the meeting evening November 4th, with a short call. He left for Toronto, Canada, Friday, to establish a division there.

John J. Hellers has taken up the duties of Treasurer of the Local N. F. S. D., in place of Ben Beaver, who is home on sick list.

John Hostrick is home from West Chester, Pa., where he spent two weeks visiting relatives.

Mrs. Wurtzsmith, and children were in Springwells, Mich., visiting relatives two weeks ago.

Mrs. Geo. Stotols is in Temperance, Michigan, visiting Miss Della Sillsbury.

John F. Miller has gone to Chicago for a visit.

J. Price, formerly of Pittsburg has been here in Detroit for two months. He has joined the Marathon Race, which will be run on November 25th. Several trophies are offered for the first, second and third prize.

N. F. S. D., D. A. D. and Ladies' Auxiliary will have their election for 1921 officers in December.

Henry Gottlieb's uncle died Saturday, November 6th, of Slight Paralysis. The body was taken to Cleveland, Ohio, for interment.

George Hanz has at last joined the D. A. D. and he would be glad to have his friends follow his example.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Day have just joined the American Insurance Union, where more than fifty deaf are members.

Boston friends will be pleased to learn that Miss Sarah Scarborough has received a pleasant position at the Grace Hospital, and she will remain in Detroit as long as the pay is good.

In honor of Mrs. McNulty's birthday, her close friends gave her a Hallowe'en party at her home Sunday afternoon, October 31st. She was remembered with Hallowe'en gifts.

J. W. Langham was in Hersely, Mich., his home, to vote, and had an enjoyable visit with his relatives and friends.

A party of forty three friends surprised Eric Simpson at his home in Windsor, Canada, last week. Old fashioned games were played and refreshments were served.

Miss Margaret Burgess accompanied her brother Archie to California Saturday evening, November 6th, to join their mother, who will be there from West Virginia. Her father has just gone to Ohio on business, and will leave there for California in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Isackson, Royal Oak, entertained their friends to a Hallowe'en party at their handsome home recently.

Frolicsome games were indulged in and every one had a jolly time. For an interesting story Mrs. Berry was given a box of bon-bons, and also Mrs. H. B. Waters received a box of bon-bons for a myth story.

Christmas is approaching, and again we are advised to "Shop Early," but where is the money?

TEXAS.

Mr. Vaughan, a deaf man from California, is now working in Houston. (I always thought that if anybody ever lived in California they never went away.)

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Pickett, Jr., went on to Waxahachie, Texas, after visiting the Talbots, in Dallas, and spent a week there visiting relatives. They made the trip down in C. D.'s new Cadillac Sedan, and got as far as Dallas on their way back home to Clarksville, Texas, when the winter rains set in, and they had to leave the car in Dallas and finish their journey home on the train.

Clifton Seale, that long, tall, six-foot-four farmer from Kerens, dropped into Dallas, the week after the big Frat Social, and spent a few days visiting the Fair. Good weather kept him home during the Social, and he made the trip to Dallas as soon as the rain run him off his farm. He's such a good farmer you can't get him away from the farm unless you drown him out.

Mrs. Bessie Briggs, one of Rev. J. W. Michaels' daughters, and a sister of Mrs. S. D. Johnson, teacher of the Baptist Sunday School class, was in Dallas a few days ago and taught the Sunday School class for Mrs. Johnson one morning. Mrs. Briggs is a teacher in the Public High Schools of Fort Smith, Ark.

Floyd Dewitt Green turned up in Dallas for the last day of the State Fair. It's the first time anybody has seen Floyd for about four years.

The Gold Dust Twins from Whitesboro—namely, Chas. Jamison and Oscar Harrison—made their third trip to Dallas during the Fair, making the trip every Saturday as long as the Fair was open. They ought to either move the Fair to Whitesboro or make those two guys move to Dallas, they will wear out the railroads if they keep up such traveling much longer.

Mrs. W. M. Davis (formerly Lettie Webster, Gallaudet, '00) spent a few days in Dallas with Mrs. Hodges during the State Fair. Mrs. Davis was in the best of health and spirits, but she must have forgotten her specs, as she did not look up any of her old friends with the exception of Mrs. Hodges. However she spent a few days in Ft. Worth, visiting with old friends of that village.

Miss Lillie Richards, of Denison, spent a week or so in Waco, visiting with her friends, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Secoy.

Ever heard of miracles happening (No? Well listen to this one), Mr. Murray Bowman, of West Texas, had his left arm broken, and refused to have a doctor attend it, saying that he was going to cure it by Christian Science. (A good many will say bunk, punk, punker, etc., but it's a fact, and an X-ray picture of the arm shows that it has been broken as recently as a month ago, and no Doctor in the country was called in, but it's up to your folks to believe or not, just as you please.)

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Secoy, of Waco, on October 13th. Mother and babe doing nicely at present, but "Old Man Secoy" is still trying to put his perfect 36 chest into a size 44 pair of B. V. D.'s. Poor man.

M. F. Sample, of Waco, was recently made a grass-widower, while his wife and baby spent a few weeks with relatives in "Rosebud." Cheer up, M. F., they all come back sooner or later (mostly later.)

On Thursday night, October 28th, 1920, the regular monthly meeting of the Dallas Silent Literary Society, was called to order at the regular meeting place, the meeting being held on the 28th, in order to allow all the members to enjoy the State Fair, which closed on the regular meeting day. The following program was carried out. With the exception of the debate, the program was good. Opening Prayer, B. T. Allison; Roll Call found a good many not there; Minutes were O. K.

President Kolp having moved to Ft. Worth, and Vice-President Gibson being absent, Sergeant Fee Griggs acted as president, and selected Mrs. Drew Johnson as Critic.

Humorous Story, Mrs. Kingdon; Romantic Story, Mrs. Clinton Talbott. Debate: "Resolved, That

Germany had a right to cross Belgium in order to fight France, in 1914." The original debate given was: "Resolved, That Belgium did more to win the War than England did," but owing to objections of one of the debaters, who considered himself supreme egoist of the Universe, the debate was changed, and was rather a messy affair, as only one of the debaters had any points at all, while two were unprepared and one was not notified in time to get ready.

Affirmative, Mr. King and Mrs. Hodges. Negative, Mr. Morgan and Miss McDaniel. The judges, Mesdames Talbot, Allison, and Mr. E. Barnes, decided that the debate was a tie. The Critic's report caused much amusement.

Prof. Charley Weyerman and Prof. W. H. Davis, both known to every deaf man of Texas of the past two decades, left Austin on the 4th of November and set out for the Western Wilderness of the Panhandle on a wild goose (we mean deer) hunt. According to reports they bagged some deers (Yes, we always did consider a bad cold a deer thing to catch, seeing as its one of the ornier things to get rid of we have ever had). Cheer up Profs., maybe next year you will actually see a deer track, and be able, as Rex Beach says, to tell why is a hunter.

Mr. Charles Drake, of Detroit, is in Texas at present, spending a forced vacation. He worked for one of the automobile firms in the Convention City of the N. A. D., but was forced to take a vacation, as all the factories were laying off men.

Mr. and Mrs. Briscoe Kolp have gone and done it at last. Yes, they have actually moved from Dallas to that little village some thirty miles to the west of us, known as Ft. Worth. Well, all we can say is that we are sorry to lose the Kolps, for they have both been in the midst of all the deaf activities in Dallas as long as they lived here, but we know that what we lose Ft. Worth will gain, and as it is always necessary for a man to go where his bread comes buttered the most, we can't kick, but we do hope somebody strikes oil on Mr. and Mrs. Kolp's place in Dallas, so they'll return to our fold.

Mr. Leonard King had rather an exciting experience while in Ft. Worth, the night of October 30th. Mr. King like lots of the other Dallas deaf went over to attend Ft. Worth's Hallowe'en party, and arriving before time he decided to stroll around, but somehow or another he strolled the wrong way, and found himself in a pretty pickle. On one of Ft. Worth's darkest corners three bandits of the female species jumped out on your majesty, and while one of them grabbed him around the legs, the other two started to rifle his pockets. But did King stand for it, he sure did not. No man named King would stand still and let a bunch of women do him up; no, siree. Mr. King he fought back and soon had the Three Musketeers on the run, but not before one of them had landed on Mr. King's back with a club that she carried, causing a rather painful wound, which however did not prove as bad as it felt. From now on you won't see Mr. King walking dark streets at night by himself we are taking it, but if he does, he will probably take a cannon along.

Much has been written about what the deaf can do, but the following incident we believe caps all that has ever been said about it before. Recently one of the Ft. Worth soldiers who saw service in France returned home with his petit French bride. Somehow or another the bride bustled her timepiece, and being a very delicate watch, with French names strewed all over the darn thing, she could not find a jewelry repair man in town who could undertake to fix it. Whereupon the poor bride became distracted and said some thing that sounded like Parley Voo, to us, and if Hubby did not get that watch fixed she would go back to France, (that's what we guess she said). Anyhow, after searching the entire city of Ft. Worth, the poor girl could find no one who could fix the blamed ticker, until she happened to run across a deaf man by the name of Walter McKee. Now, Mr. McKee is some little watch repairer, let me tell you, and after examining the watch agreed to fix it; but his boss warned him that if he failed or got the thing mussed up any way it would cost him $50.00. But McKee was confident of his ability, and fixed the watch, whereupon he received a ten spot as a reward, a kiss on each cheek by the pretty French girl, who after taking his name and address said she would tell the world fair that Mr. McKee was some watch repairer. (That's what we think she said. Oul, Oul.)

The night of October 30th, 1920, found about one hundred deaf people of both, sexes gathered at the Musicians Hall, 9th and Main Streets, Ft. Worth, Texas, where the Ft. Worth Frats gave a Hallowe'en Masquerade Party. As usual upon such occasions, there were present in various costumes, all the famous men of history; George Washington walked arm in arm with Nero, while Julius Caesar toed the mark as the sidekick of His Lowness, Sir Lucifer Goblins, Farmers, niggers, and all sorts of old costumes were noticed. The judges, Messrs. Joe Sprouse, of Ft. Worth, Clifton Talbot, of Dallas, and Charles Drake, of Detroit, awarded the prizes as follows:

1st Prize (ladies), Mrs. Hale, funniest costume.
1st Prize (men), Mr. Churchill, best looking man.
2d Prize (ladies), Mrs. Wolverton, most original costume.
2d Prize (men), Mr. Tom. Davis, farmer.
3d Prize (both sexes), awarded to children.

After the Grand March and the selection of the winners, the crowd unmasked, and spent the remainder of the evening playing games, among which were the fish pond, roulette wheel, and fruit guessing contest. The party broke up at 11:15 P.M., and every one went home, tired but happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rassmussen are the proud parents of a baby-girl, born about a month ago, at Mrs. Rassmussen's mother's home in Valley View, Texas. (Mrs. Rassmussen was formerly Miss Maud McCollum). Mr. Rassmussen is still in Akron, Ohio, where he works for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

Mrs. James Irvin (nee Prudie McDuffie), underwent an operation for appendicitis recently, and for a while was very low, but at present writing she is back on the road to a speedy recovery. We were surprised to hear she was sick, and glad that she is happily over the worst of it.

McDANIEL—MORGAN.

On Sunday, November 7th, somewhere in Oklahoma, Miss Mabel McDaniel became the bride of Mr. Grover Morgan. Mr. Morgan is a graduate of the Texas School, while Mrs. Morgan graduated from the Oklahoma School. They had hoped to be married secretly, but somehow, somewhere, somebody must have smelled a mouse, because it was all over the State of Texas on Saturday night, that they were to be married on the 7th. Mr. Morgan holds down a good position with the Dreyfus Clothiers, where he is chief billing clerk. Mrs. Morgan before her marriage was an employee of the Dallas Post Office. The Morgans will reside in Dallas permanently, it is understood.

The marriage of Miss Mabel McDaniel to Mr. Grover Morgan, marked the end of the employment of deaf people in the Post Office in Dallas. Miss McDaniel was the first to go to work and the last to leave. Of the other girls, Miss Irene Neal got married and quit, as did Miss Ollie Wilkerson, while Miss Jess Thomason, it is rumored, will become a bride before a great time passes.

Waco Division, No. 68, N. F. S. D., certainly did itself proud in the banquet they gave on the night of November 6th. Having the Dallas and Houston banquets as marks at which to shoot, they were well prepared, and although they did outstrip Houston's banquet and came darn near getting Dallas' goat, they did not have quite enough steam to capture the latter. So No. 63's banquet still stands as the best held in Texas so far, but No. 62 of Ft. Worth is yet to be heard from.

Some sixty-odd deaf Frats, their wives, sweethearts, friends, etc., assembled in the Gold Room of the Hotel Raleigh, Waco, Texas, where they were treated to a great feast. The banquet was very well arranged, and all seats fixed so that all could get a clear view of the speakers at all times.

Bro. J. D. Lowery, President of Waco Division, was toastmaster, and his amusing tales about the different speakers on the program, kept the crowd in an uproar from start to finish.

BRAVE IN FACE OF MISFORTUNE

Unable to hear a single sound, in a world of music and laughter; unable to make himself understood in speech, except to his mother and sister who understood his baby prattle; totally blind in the right eye and with badly impaired vision of the left, Harry Brimble, of 1122 Mirasol Street, works every day and is happy.

Mr. Brimble is assistant shipping clerk in a large warehouse, where through sheer pluck and persistency he mastered the details in such a manner that enables him to earn a much better living than many men blessed with hearing and the best of eyesight.

"I do not look upon my condition as an affliction," Mr. Brimble wrote on the little pad he carries in his left hand pocket for conversational purpose. "Life is a race, and any one with racing instincts and experience will tell you that the overcoming of handicaps is a part of the sport. That's just what I have to do, overcome handicaps, and I'm trying to see how well I can do it."

REALLY LOVES TO WORK.
"I am so much better off than a great many people, too, because I really love to work. I enjoy being able to do things as well, and maybe some times a little better, than men who have the advantage of me in their faculties."

"Now, since I can read through the special glasses made for me by Doctor Van Breton, I am happy indeed."

Speaking for her son, Mrs. Lucy Brimble who lives with him said: "My son's eyesight first became impaired when he was a very little boy and had measles. When he was 7 he had scarlet fever and lost his hearing. But it never affected his disposition, his eagerness to work or his thirst for knowledge. As soon as he got through school he wanted to go to work, just like all the other boys he knew, and he has always contributed to the upkeep of the home.

MISFORTUNE TREATED LIGHTLY.

"When my daughter and I came to California a few years ago, my son's eyes were troubling him more than usual, but we did not know there was anything serious. When he followed us here a few months later, we noticed that the right eye had a very peculiar appearance, but he told us nothing until we questioned him, and then he admitted that a cataract had come on it and that to save the other eye he had had it removed and a glass eye put in. He treated it as lightly as some folks would if they had merely cut their finger."

"I am afraid you are telling too much about me, mother," Mr. Brimble interrupted with his little pad and pencil. "I have much more to be happy about than most people believe. I can still see the sky and the trees. I can smell the flowers and I can feel the love of my mother and sister and my friends for me. I hear none of the discordant noises of the city, or the ill-tempered remarks of disagreeable people, and I don't have to be bothered with what my sister tells me everybody is indulging in now, telling the price of everything they own."

"I think work is one of the greatest blessings that man has. It is not merely what he earns, but the developing of his skill and his faculties, and the pride and enjoyment he gets out of the work of his hands that God gave him."

HAPPY SILENT CLUB
"One of the happiest clubs in this city is the Silent Club, composed of about two hundred members of deaf and dumb people. We are planning a wonderful Hallowe'en party, with a witch who will ride silently through the air, and a cauldron into which we will throw all of our troubles."

"There is one thing I want to say for my brother," said Mrs. Sophia Paget, who lives at the same address, "He has the very biggest heart in the world and insists that we never turn any one away from the door who asks for aid or food. A few days ago there was a man asking for help to get an artificial arm, so he could be in a better position to get work. Mother and I gave him what we thought we could afford, but when my brother came in and heard what we had given, he ran down the street after the man and gave him more. We are proud to be kin to a man who can manifest the qualities of manhood he has along with the gentleness and tenderness he shows to everyone."—Los Angeles Examiner, Oct. 31.

Recently the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Judge, Rector of St. Matthew's Church, completed the twentieth anniversary of his rectorate. In honor of the occasion the Church wardens and Vestrymen of St. Matthew's Church tendered a reception to Dr. and Mrs. Judge, in the guild rooms of St. Matthew's Church, Thursday evening, November 18th. Quite a number of people from St. Ann's were among the three hundred or more who came to felicitate the good doctor on his long and successful pastorate. St. Ann's Church for the Deaf, being a Chapel of St. Matthew's, the silent people decided that Dr. Judge should have an appropriate reminder of their affectionate regard. There was a rush to get in on the subscription list and in a very short time the amount needed was subscribed and a handsome black leather travelling case was purchased and presented to Dr. Judge during the reception. The gift came as a complete surprise, and Dr. Judge was much touched with the evidence of esteem coming from the people of St. Ann's. Besides expressing his thanks at the time he received the gift, he sent the following letter which was read during the service at St. Ann's Sunday afternoon:

ST. MATTHEW'S RECTORY
82 W. 84 ST., NEW YORK, Nov. 20, 1920

MY DEAR MR. KENT: Will you please give to the members of St. Ann's the very best and best thanks for their beautiful gift to me on the occasion of the Reception tendered by the Church Wardens and Vestrymen of the Parish in honor of my Twentieth Anniversary. I was so glad to welcome so many of St. Ann's congregation on that evening, and I only wish everyone of the whole congregation might have been present. We should have received them with great pleasure.

I always remember with gratitude my connection with the Rev. Dr. Gallaudet, who was Rector-Emeritus for two years after I became rector. The happiness of being so closely associated with him, of having him as adviser and friend, will never be forgotten. I knew him indeed as far back as the year 1888, but not with the close friendship of later years. You have, I think, transferred something of your deep regard for him to me, and for this I am grateful, and I shall look upon this gift of the costly and beautiful traveling suit-case as an evidence that you rejoice with me that I have been able to serve the Church throughout these last twenty years acceptably, and have had the happiness of gathering about me so large a company of kind and good friends. Amongst them I rejoice to number the people of St. Ann's, their clergy, and all who are interested in the great work among the silent people.

Very sincerely and faithfully your friend,
ARTHUR H. JUDGE.

Dr. Judge has always been an earnest and helpful friend to the work at St. Ann's Church and the more extensive work of the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes. In spite of the exacting duties inseparable from the rectorship of a large parish and numerous demands on his time and energy he has never failed to keep close and intimate touch with the Church's work among the Silent people. In return they have a deep affection for him, and were glad of the opportunity to express in a tangible form their share with the people of St. Matthew's Church in the possession of a faithful, zealous, efficient rector.

TENDERS for the erection of the new Manitoba School for the Deaf were opened on November 3. The lowest bidders, Carter-Halls Adlenger Co., one of the largest construction firms of Winnipeg, were awarded the contract to erect the main building and the dining hall at a cost of $482,000 and $139,000 respectively. The buildings are to be built of stone, the cost being less than that of brick. Preliminary work is to begin at once.—The Echo, Nov. 15.

SAN FRANCISCO

[Send news of interest to D. S. Luddy, 124 Primrose Road, Burlingame, or care of Bulletin Composing Dept., San Francisco.]

If you prefer a great seaport and like to ramble along its great harbor, where you will find ships from the seven seas, where the fog-kissed girls have the best complexions in the world, where the sun sets in all its glory beyond the Golden Gate, where a little further down the peninsula the climate ranks as one of the world's four finest climates, where there is a great metropolitan atmosphere, a city famous for its restaurants and cafes, its cosmopolitan population having introduced many a palatable dish, where you may roam along fishermen's wharf and imagine you are in sunny Italy, and other features too numerous to mention, come to San Francisco. There is only one San Francisco.

Miss Ethel Pryor, who has been ill and was in St. Francis Hospital, is now recovering.

Mrs. Geo. Williams was successfully operated upon for appendicitis in the Children's Hospital. She is now staying with Miss Darling in San Jose, where she is recuperating.

Mr. Asinoff, who came here from New York, has been in Stockton for the past six months, but is back in San Francisco now.

Another New Yorker, who has lately chosen San Francisco for his home and has set work here, is Mr. Newman. His family now live in Oakland, and his little sister attends the Berkeley School.

Mr. Walter Lichtenburg of Tacoma, Wash., and a graduate of the Washington School at Vancouver is among the latest arrivals to come to San Francisco. He is working in a printing office near the civic center.

Mr. James Reilly, who came here from Los Angeles, has a good job in one of San Francisco's large dyeing and cleaning works.

Mr. Edward Kelly, who has been out in the country for the past two years, surprised us by blowing in at the Frat business meeting this month.

Mr. George Parrish, of Akron and the whole U. S. A., prefers the San Francisco air, fog and sunshine, to the rest of the country, Los Angeles included. At least he has decided to winter here and cheat old Jack Frost at his game.

Some of the local deaf attended the big foot-ball game between the University of California and the University of Washington. Though the California team won by a big score, she won because she had the better team; the University of Washington has a great team.

President Broderick of the Frats' Berkeley Division was at our meeting this month, and got the boys interested in a foot-ball match to take place between two deaf-mute teams on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tilley lately took an auto trip up to Crescent City, Del Norte Co., which is up at the boundary line between California and Oregon. Mr. Tilley enjoyed duck hunting, bagging 24 ducks.

Mr. Paul Martin, of Chicago, lately came to Los Angeles and got work there, but is now in San Francisco and expects to land a job here. He is a member of the typographical union. Like most of the other boys, who have seen the two cities, he prefers San Francisco.

The local Frat division has been getting stronger lately by so many Frats from other places coming here.

Little Fauntleroy, with her grandma visiting the zoo in Aksarben says: "Oh, Grandma, let us go over and see the parrots and monkeys in yonder Booth." Grandma puts on her specks and takes a wise look and then says: "O, that is not the chatter of parrots and monkeys, my dear! It is merely a number of pure orators thinking they can speak!"

We deeply regret the serious accident that befell Mr. Charles Le Clercq, who lately came here from New York and is employed by the Sunset Publishing Co. as engraver. The following is clipped from the San Francisco Chronicle:—

Charles J. Le Clercq, aged 57, living at 1501 Larkin Street, suffered injuries that may prove fatal early yesterday morning, when struck down by a speeding automobile at Geary and Taylor Streets. He was taken to the Central Emergency Hospital, where, it was said, his skull had been fractured. He also had lacerated wounds about the head, face and neck, and body abrasions.

According to Melvin Davidsou, 1005 Pine Street, who was walking with Le Clercq, the motorist failed to stop after the accident. He said the machine was being driven so fast it was impossible to learn the license number.

Two taxicab drivers told the police the automobile turned down Mason street after striking Le Clercq and that it carried no tail-light.

Mr. W. H. Hutton celebrated his 76th birthday on November 14th. He is still hale and hearty and still works for the American Marble and Mosaic Co. He has been a marble cutter for nearly 60 years.

HARTFORD.

Mr. E. W. Frisbee, of Boston, spent the week-end November 20th and 21st in Hartford. He found very great changes at the old school plant, now an almost unrecognizable place. He expressed some wonder that the school could carry on its work in such make-shift conditions. He conducted the services for the deaf at Christ Church, Sunday afternoon, at 3:30 P. M. His many friends this way were glad to see him.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Barr, Jr., who are boarding at 17 Beach Street, this city, spent the week-end November 13th, 14th, in Springfield, Mass., Mrs. Barr's former home.

Harold L. Burdick, of North Adams, was in Hartford for a few days recently. Mrs. Burdick and two children will spend the winter at her mother's home here.

A party of young people met at the home of Bernard Sullivan, of New Haven, on Sunday afternoon and evening, of November 14th—a birthday party.

The Courant, our local daily morning paper, unprogressive and tory to the core, reports jocosely 67 arrests for drunkenness in this city, for the first seven days of November, and refers to Federal law officers, who are attempting to enforce a United States law, as "Tea tasters." 67 arrests for drunkenness in one week, in a small city like Hartford, is a disgrace.

The Devil and his two chief Aides-de-Camp, Mammon and Appetite, seem to be having it all their own way. And we regret to state that there is some evidence that one or two or more deaf men have been trifling with whiskey, at $7.50 a pint, in a certain back room on Asylum Street. It will probably take a few years to kill off these poor, misguided boozers, who feel they must have liquor or die. But in time, please God, we shall be a sober city and a sober nation.

Mrs. Clara Flagg Nevers returned from a three months sojourn in Boston, Mass., Concord, N. H., and other places the last week in October. A few days after her arrival she was taken sick, and for a fortnight has been in the Hartford Hospital. She has been a widow, supporting herself by housework, since her husband died six years ago last August.

Mr. Edward P. Clarke has accepted a position in Bridgeport, Ct. We understand it is a government position as placement officer for the Board of Vocational Education for disabled soldiers, finding jobs for them. It seems an excellent work for Mr. Clarke, who certainly is a man of sincere sympathy for the "under dog in the fight." The deaf people who now have occasion to visit the Hartford State employment office, where Mr. Clarke used to be superintendent, find a very different state of affairs and get far less consideration and help. Mr. Clarke keeps his present Hartford home, on Withersfield Avenue, but plans to move to Bridgeport next Spring.

The Waterbury Silent Sewing circle have elected these officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Howard T. Backus; Vice-President, Mrs. George E. Wells; Treasurer, Mrs. Michaels Walsh; Business Manager, Mrs. H. R. Erbe. This Sewing Club has recently sent ten dollars to the Everett Home for Aged Deaf, and are planning to hold a fair in Waterbury, Saturday evening, December 18th, at St. John's Parish House.

On Friday evening, November 6th, Miss Mary E. Atkinson and Miss Mary Dougherty entertained the local members of the Gallaudet College Alumni Association at Cogswell Hall. It was then announced that the annual banquet would be held on Thursday evening, December 9th, at the University Club, 30 Lewis Street. Let us hope it will be a clear, mild, placid December night, a real Indian summer kind of an evening, and not one of these awful winter nights that scare the ladies, so a few of us hungry deaf men in this town can have a good dinner. Last winter this College Alumni banquet did not materialize, because the committee in charge lost their nerve on the appointed date for it, because a foot or two of snow had fallen and a wintry wind whistled a bit shrilly over the housetops and around the street corners—just the sort of weather that gives a healthy man an appetite.

Franz L. Arber, of Springfield, Mass., who graduated from School at Northampton last June, this fall entered the Loomis Institute, a college preparatory school at Windsor, Ct. This makes him a neighbor, of W. S. Langdon, who was one of the first Clark School graduates, some 45 years ago.

Messrs. W. C. Rockwell, W. G. Durian and Algot Anderson motor-down to Middletown recently, of a Saturday afternoon, and saw the Wesleyan-Amherst football game. We understand that Messrs. Rockwell and Durian considered it a very good football game, but that they both had seen as good a game at their Alma Mater in Washington, D. C. Yes, and had a hand, or rather a foot, in such a game themselves. But that was long ago. They are fast getting gray with age now. We have more than once invited these middle-age sports to come out to Goodwin Park, and try their hands and wits at the royal and ancient game of golf, even challenged them to a game with an aged deaf minister, whom we are pretty well acquainted with, having known him all our life, but they have been shy of this challenge so far.

An entertaining drama was enacted at the Parish House assembly room, 45 Church Street, on Saturday evening, October 29th. It was for the benefit of the Frats, and was well attended by the local deaf and some from out of town. Those who took part in the play were Messrs. P. C. Meacham, W. C. Rockwell, Algot Anderson, E. C. Luther, John Moran, Fred Mayville, Mrs. E. C. Luther, Mrs. H. D. Lee Clark and Caroline E. Cox.

Robert J. Martling, of Greenwich, died in a hospital in that city Friday, November 12th, aged 89 years. The funeral was at the Mortuary Chapel at Evergreen Cemetery, New Haven, on Monday afternoon, November 15th. There were twenty-five present, mostly hearing relatives and friends. The only deaf present being Mrs. John McCue, Mrs. Louisa Reiger and Henry Boecking, Alfred A. Stevenson signed "Nearer, my God, to Thee." The widow will make her home for the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Graves, who are relatives, at Whiteville, a suburb of New Haven. We understand that Mr. Martling, who was active up to the last few weeks of his long life, was one of the oldest deaf-mutes in New England, with the possible exception of John Irwin, of near Portland, who is 90 years of age, and in somewhat feeble health. Mr. and Mrs. Martling had been married for nearly 40 years, and much sympathy has been expressed for this bereft and lonely widow. As the great Book of faith states, "Here we have no continuing city, but are sojourners like all our fathers."

FANWOOD.

Founders' Day was observed November 19th. In the morning of that date, teachers and pupils assembled in the Institution chapel to commemorate the great day. The first event of the occasion was the salute to the Stars and Stripes. After that, talks about the day from pupils of the various classes.

Cadet Capt. Louis Cassinelli sketched with colored crayons on the slate. The picture represented a distinguished man presenting the Institution charter to one of the Board of Directors. Two buildings—the Academic Building and the Hospital Building—were also in the sketch. Two pupils were represented holding a banner on which appeared, "Giving the charter to the Institution for the Deaf." Cadet Corporal Alfred Ederheimer and Cadet C. Wamsley assisted in making the sketch.

In the afternoon, the Cadet Battalion was reviewed by Major J. Wesley Lyon, Supervising Officer, New York Zone of the Military Training Commission State of New York, representing Brigadier-General Lincoln C. Andrews, the Chief Supervising Officer, who was unable to come on account of duties pertaining to his new office in Albany.

After the ceremonies, a competition between Companies "A," "B," and "C," for the honor of carrying the colors for the ensuing year, was held. Major Lyon and Staff acting as judges. "A" Company, under the captaincy of Cadet Capt. C. Moscovitz, won by a very small margin. Major Lyon, in awarding the colors to the winning company, stated that the contest was so close that it was with great difficulty that the judges were able to decide, which company was entitled to first place. Second place went to company "B," under the captaincy of Cadet Capt. E. Malloy. Major Lyon also complimented Company "C" on their proficiency, which he considered marvelous, because of the fact that the boys were so young and had only been drilled for a month previously. Cadet Capt. L. Cassinelli is the commander of the company.

A New National Color, to replace the one which was worn out, was presented to the Battalion by Major Francis G. Landon, a member of the Board of Directors of the Institution.

Among the distinguished visitors present, we were delighted to see Mrs. George Moore Smith, widow of Major-General George Moore Smith, who reviewed the Battalion for a great many successive years and who donated the second and third prize medals to the winners of the individual competition, held on Members' Day.

In the evening of the great day, an Oyster Party of the Protean Society was held. The members of the Adrastian Society (girls' society) were invited. While there, Cadet Captain E. Malloy gave a leaf of last year's calendar, dated November 19, 1919, to Major Van Tassel, so as to remind him it was given to the captain of the winning company by Major Van Tassel. After a brief address, Major Van Tassel called on Cadet Captain Charles Moscovitz and gave him a paper-bag, as a Cracker-Jack prize and a souvenir of the party. Charles opened the bag and found one oyster-cracker in it, causing much mirth among the Cadet officers and guests. In accordance with custom the Protean Society invited the girls to inspect their society room. One of them took a pencil and wrote on a sheet of paper, which she put on the bulletin board: "The members of the Adrastian Society take pleasure in thanking the members of the Protean Society for their kind invitation to visit their room, but though the room is beautiful, we (the girls) are willing to bet our last penny that ours is the best. The wagon that makes the loudest noise is often the most rusty. (THE ADRASTIAN SOCIETY)"

Major Van Tassel presented four gold medals and one bronze medal to the Protean Society, in appreciation for keeping his old medal, which was given to the society three years ago. These medals were won by him when he was an infantryman in the 22d Regiment.

Games and dances were indulged in. The great day passed away with happiness for everybody.

Colonel L. B. Gardner and Major Tassel and Lieutenant F. Lux were guests.

Last week the Institution was visited by two ladies from Central America, Mrs. Josefa Toledo de Aguerri and Miss Juanita Molina, who is attending Columbia University. The former is here on a mission of the Nicaraguan Government.

Dr. and Mrs. Fox spent the evening of Tuesday, November 16th, at Caldwell, New Jersey, where they went to a birthday dinner, tendered the doctor by his sons, at the old homestead.

Recently Mr. Aurelio Ruggiero, a former pupil, sent a card to his chum, and stated that he and his brother reached Los Angeles, California safely.

An entertainment by the Junior High Class was given to the members of the Fanwood Literary Association Saturday evening.

Sunday afternoon Major Van Tassel gave an enthusiastic talk on athletics to the cadets in the Boys' Study Hall, and then he awarded ribbons to the winners of 1st and 2d places, at the recent field day contests.

After the Sunday's service by Prof. Jones, the Cadet Battalion was formed on the boys' parade ground. It was to honor and escort the new National Color. Exercises and Provisional Company carried on until taps of recall sounded.

A surprise birthday party was extended to Miss Agnes Craig, by the members of Adrastian Society, Sunday evening, in their room. Refreshments and games were indulged in.

Miss Agnes Craig received several visitors on her birthday. She also received some presents.

A MASQUERADE PARTY.

On Saturday, October 30th, there was a big merry-making Halloween party at the residence of Mr. Albert Wolf in Kensington. The invited guests were requested to masquerade themselves for the party. Such request was complied with by every guest. Upon reaching the house they found the parlor and dining room profusely festooned with black and orange crepe paper, and sprays of blazing crimson autumn leaves, with numerous jack-o'-lanterns hanging around, presenting a very pretty spectacle. Costumes worn by the guests were considered to be prize-winners, had they been shown at public affairs.

The evening was most enjoyably spent in appropriate game of the Ancient Druid festival. Dancing was also indulged in. During the latter part of the night refreshments were served. The party broke up at an early morning hour, the guests reluctantly wending their way homeward after they had voted the party a big success in every manner. Those having the pleasure of attending the party and also the costumes worn there, were as follows:—

The following account of the Gallaudet College vs Drexel Institute foot-ball match, clipped from the Philadelphia Record, November 20th, will probably interest the graduates of Gallaudet College and other sport-loving deaf scattered all over the country:—

Drexel Institute eleven went down to defeat at the hands of the Gallaudet-College mutes, of Washington, D. C., in the final clash of the season for the local team, at the Strawberry & Clouthier field, Sixty second and Walnut Streets, yesterday afternoon. Although the Drexel lads had put up the best battle of their career, they were unable to hold the visiting machine in check, and when the final whistle blew the Blue and Gold had gone down to defeat, 13-0.

Drexel started the game as though they intended to bowl over the Southerners, and early in the game carried the ball deep into Gallaudet territory. However, neither eleven had any chance of scoring during the first period, and it was not until the middle of the second period that the Drexel defense faltered, and the visitors on four plays smashed all opposition and carried the pigskin from midfield over the goal line.

It was largely due to the spectacular end runs and line plunges by Seipp, the big half-back on the mute eleven, that the score was made. Netusil started the advance with a 12-yard dash through tackle. Then came a great end run by Seipp, which carried him to the 28-yard line. Another dive by Netusil, and Seipp carried the pigskin over the goal line. Benedict kicked the goal.

Crighton, the big Drexel full-back, fell on a fumble just before the close of the period, and when a number of players fell upon him he was almost put out of the game. He pluckily remained, however. His splendid defensive work in support of the line kept the visitors in check throughout the third period. Seipp tried a field goal during the period, but it went astray.

The ball was on the Drexel five-yard line early in the final period on a penalty, but a prompt punt took the oval out of the danger zone. It was not until near the end of the period that the mutes again started their march to the goal line with a series of fake pass and spread out formations, that the Gallaudet team again scored. Once more it was Seipp who carried the ball over the line.

Of special interest to the spectators and the local eleven was the method of signals of the visitors. Owing to the fact that all of the players are mutes, neither team had to be particularly secretive about the announcing of the plays, and late in the game the Drexel team rejected numbers and used words without detriment.

The Philadelphia Local Branch, P. S. A. D., held a social meeting at All Souls' Parish House on Saturday evening, 20th of November. About thirty persons attended it. The evening was spent playing amusing games with refreshments following. Madame Sanders had charge of the games and Madame Stevens of the refreshments. Quite an enjoyable evening was thus passed.

Mr. Lyman Steed, Principal of the Mt. Airy Institution, gave a reading of "Monsieur Beaucaire," by Booth Tarkington, before the Cleric Literary Association, last Thursday evening, 18th inst. Of course Mr. Steed's delivery was by the sign language, which he can use quite freely.

Mr. Peter J. Kiernan, of New York, asked us for the address of Mrs. Anna Higgins, mother of the son whom we reported ill in the Episcopal Hospital a couple of weeks ago or so. We regret that we have not yet been able to accommodate Mr. Kiernan, but shall be glad to do so as soon as we obtain the address.

Miss Lydia B. Thomas, of Easton, Pa., has been in Philadelphia since Friday, 19th inst., visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Arnold. She expects to return home on Sunday, 22d.

Mr. John Tursney has obtained a passport to visit Cuba. He expects to sail on November 27th.

Messrs. L. S. Cherry, L. Patton, Max Danofsky, and J. J. Martyr, members of the Gallaudet College football team, remained in Philadelphia till Sunday night, and visited All Souls' Church.

SUNDY NOTES

Miss Ida L. Frank, of Lakewood, gave a surprise party, which was held at her home, in honor of the happy married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Julius J. Byck. The table was decorated with beautiful fall leaves and flowers, and had lots of delicious things to eat. Among the guests were all hearing friends, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mr. Dick Frank, and others.

For the protection and greater ease of deaf persons in Holland, a society devoted to their interests has introduced a distinctive button to be worn by those afflicted, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A small white disk is bisected by a vertical red stripe, the white ground at the sides bearing the letters "S" and "H," initials of the words "bad hearing" in the Dutch language.

NEW YORK.

News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

The "Count of No Account" tickled a large and appreciative audience at St. Ann's Guild Room Saturday evening, November 13th. It was a first-class play done in first-class style. The cast included names that had frequently appeared on the programs of dramatic entertainments for nearly twenty years, and one, Mr. Chester Q. Mann, can boast an experience of more than forty-five years in amateur theatricals, starting with the Fawcett Literary Association way back in the early seventies.

The plot hinged on an unscrupulous landlord substituting a tramp to impersonate a French nobleman, who was expected to make the Lion's Inn his summer stopping place. Two New York brokers anxious to make a royal match for their daughters. The appearance of the real count and how weary Willie, with the aid of the town sheriff, managed to eliminate him for a while was unfolded as the play proceeded. An impressionable French maid and a chronic invalid, with his widowed sister added complications which, as usual, were solved before the final denouement and everything ended happily.

To single out anyone as deserving special mention would be hard. Each one played his part to perfection, and it was this that contributed so much to the enjoyment of the audience. Following is the cast of characters:

Archibald Waring, called "Weary"..... Herman F. Beck
Johann Kramer, proprietor of the "Lion's Inn"..... Chester Q. Mann
Count Henri Nogodde, of Paris..... John N. Funk
Gen. Ina Terror..... William W. Thomas
Mrs. Maria Goodley, his widowed sister..... Alice E. Judge
St. Perkin, a sheriff..... William C. Wren
James J. Long, a capitalist..... John H. Kent
Marvin Short, his partner..... Joseph Pfander
Bessie Long and Jessie Short, their daughters..... E. Grossman and A. Klaus
Louise, a French maid..... Johanna McCluskey
Hans, a porter..... Louis Radlein
Otto..... Charles Olsen

We leave it to the two hundred who were present to hand out the laurels. One said: "Seems as if St. Ann's people are the only ones in the silent community who can give a first-class dramatic entertainment. I hope there will be many more this season." Thanks. There will be two more, and the annual "Indoor Circus." Due notice will appear in the JOURNAL.

Mrs. F. A. Simonson gave a Reception from 2 to 6 in her apartment, 924 West End Avenue, on Saturday November 20th. About fifty of her deaf lady friends attended the reception.

Mrs. Moses Loew helped the hostess in receiving her friends, and showing them to the dining room for refreshment. Mrs. Osmond Loew served tea, while Mrs. H. E. Runkle served coffee.

The table was beautifully decorated. Refreshments consisted of the following:

Paradise Sandwiches (Assorted open Caviar)
Chicken Sandwiches
Lobster and Crab Ravigotte
Finger Rolls
Biscuit Tortoni Assorted Cake
Petit Fours Tartlettes Eclair
Almonds Chocolate Mints
Marrons Glacé
Coffee Tea

Those who came to the reception were:

Mesdames A. Barry, A. Buchrach, E. Bloom, S. Branson, L. Cohen, S. Eber, C. Feischer, I. Goldberg, S. Goldberg, S. Gomprecht, S. Hirsch, H. Kane, M. Kenner, S. Kohn, E. Levi, M. Levy, W. Lipgens, T. Little, M. Loew, O. Loew, S. Lowenheizer, M. Marks, C. McManis, M. Miller, J. McCluskey, F. Nimm, J. Peters, H. Runkle, Rosenbaum, E. Souweine, Anna Seyd, F. Thompson, R. Townsend, H. Vetterlein, J. Ward, L. Weiss, A. Craig, Z. Bernstein, G. Eaton, B. Fink, A. Judge, L. Levi, S. Pursin, E. Spanton, C. Travers.

H. A. D. NOTES

Rev. John H. Kent gave an unusually fine talk on the subject of "Forbearance" at our last Friday evening services, on November 19th, which was highly appreciated. The next speaker will be Rabbi A. J. Amateau, on "The Deaf in Foreign Lands," Friday evening, the 26th. All are welcome.

A Thanksgiving Celebration, under direction of the new Chairman of Entertainment Committee, Frank Bonner, was held here on Saturday evening, November 20th, and proved to be a most enjoyable affair. Approximately 200 persons attended. Among the prize-winners, for games, were Misses Esther Sperling and Dorothy Israel, and Harry Hoffman and Max Gross. James H. Manning was the lucky winner of a $5.00 goldpiece.

An impromptu mock trial was given the very next evening when the doors were thrown open to all. His Honor, Judge Jack Seltzer, presided as Mrs. A. A. Cohen and Mr. Haberman recited their marital difficulties. The legal talent included such eminent barristers as Sol. Garson and Max Lubin. The proceedings were highly grotesque, the audience appearing to enjoy themselves greatly, while the jury snored.

Those who attend the Grand Bazaar which is to be held at the S. W. J. D. building, 40 West 115th Street, Wednesday evening, December 1st, to Sunday, December 5th, will find many novel surprises in the variety and novelty of things displayed. Months of arduous preparation will finally culminate in one of the biggest events of its kind ever given here. Better come. Admission is only ten cents.

XAVIER ALLIED NOTES

Near to seventy-five Catholic deaf affiliated with the Xavier Ephpheta Society paid tribute to the memory of De l'Epee, by attending 9 o'clock mass and receiving Holy Communion last Sunday morning, in the Alumni Chapel of the College of St. Francis Xavier's.

Rev. Father Dalton, S. J., celebrant of the mass, was attended by two youthful servers from the Xavier Altar Boys' Society. Messrs. Daly and Edwin assumed duties as ushers. The presence of Presidents Thomas Cosgrove, of the X. E. S., past President James Loneragan, President Fogarty, of the Brooklyn branch De l'Epee Society, President Thomas O'Neill of the Young Men's Sodality, Matthew Higgins, who plans on active revival of the Xavier A. A. in the near future, and representatives of every school in the Greater City, was noted among the attendants.

Next Sunday a public celebration in honor of l'Abbe K. C. of C. Institute, Brooklyn, will bring to gether quite a notable assembly, if Chairman Fogarty, of the Committee in charge, is to be relied on. He is anxious to have the deaf and their friends meet the new pastor of the Xavier Allied organization, and is confident the easy going signs of Father Dalton, who has promised to attend, will be in the nature of a gladsome surprise.

"Matty" Higgins has taken the bull by the horns, as it were, and December's first Sunday will see some sort of doings towards cementing the Xavier "Simou-Pores" into a practical organization. Illness in his family has been a handicap to "Matty's" plans to make an earlier getaway.

President Cosgrove, right after the fair at St. Elizabeth's Home concludes, will begin activities towards making the annual X. E. S. Christmas Tree a live proposition.

Miss Mae Austr says orders for the X. E. S. emblem will surely pass the hundred mark before the holidays.

After suffering for a long period from acute rheumatism, the father of Mrs. Thomas Cosgrove (nee Adcock) passed away last week. He was quite well known to his daughter's deaf friends. The funeral occurred on Friday, November 19th.

The one outstanding gala evening, which is eagerly anticipated by New Yorkers is the Annual Ball given by Greater New York Division No. 23, N. F. S. D., which is not a long way off, in other words, February 5th, 1921.

Last year when expenses were so low and tickets sold at seventy-five cents, there was such a crowd that the only thing left for us to do was to raise the admission price.

So this time the admission shall be $1.00. We expect more than the usual big crowd—more than the ordinary big time—because we have laid aside one hundred dollars. Just think of it, one hundred dollars for cash prizes to be divided among the best costumes.

And Jazz Orchestra, by the way of music. You know how it was at our last picnic.

Chairman Friedwald and his committee are busy. Some committee! You said it. If any aspirant for this record, which we are out to make, has us all up against a stone wall, then we are immensely proud of ourselves, and not bashful in admitting it. But who wouldn't be just as we are.

H. A. D. NOTES

On Saturday evening, November 20th, Mrs. S. Urig and Mrs. Anna Gunther were tendered a surprise party, in honor of Mrs. S. Urig's deaf son's birthday (Mr. Harry Urig). He received many beautiful gifts from his friends. The affair took place at Mr. and Mrs. Kate Urig's handsome home on Wilson Avenue, in Brooklyn. They were married on June 5th, 1920. Mrs. Kate Urig's maiden name was Kate Player, a former pupil at Fanwood School. Mr. Henry Urig was formerly a pupil at St. Joseph School. All had an enjoyable time. At midnight a delicious repast was served.

Those present, besides those already named, were: Miss Florence McNamara, Mr. Fred Lochman, Miss Olive Olsen, Mr. DeFoe, Mr. Cassaro, Mr. A. Adams, Mr. Frank Prior, Mr. Frank Cook, Miss A. Dataluna, Mr. J. Goenski, Mr. H. Barnett, Mr. J. Alloece, Miss A. Costello, Mr. Fred Campi, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hines, Miss Louise Radlein, Mr. Charles Olsen, Mr. Louis Radlein, Mr. Fred Miski, Mr. M. Hience.

Do you want the next N. A. D. Convention to meet in Greater N. Y.? This and other important matters affecting the Branch will be discussed at the semi-annual meeting of the Greater N. Y. Branch, N. A. D., at the Great Hall of the College of the City of New York, 137th Street, and St. Nicholas Terrace, (near 137th St. Broadway Subway Station) this Saturday evening, November 27th, at 8 P.M.

Please consider this as a personal invitation to attend, and bring your friends. It is of vital importance that you should do so. The Social Committee will give an interesting report. Remember the date—Saturday evening, November 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. McClelland were visitors at Fanwood last Monday, from which school he graduated forty-eight years ago. He has been a hospital patient recently, but appears to have fully recovered from the operation he underwent.

Email Basch left the hospital last Friday, after a confinement of eighteen days. He was very sick at the beginning, and suffered one relapse, but is fast recuperating, and expects quite soon to recover his former health and activity.

To the friends (members of St. Ann's Church), Mr. Email Basch, through the office of the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, tenders his sincerest thanks for their gift of flowers sent him while he was in the hospital.

Mr. William Brogan, of Philadelphia, was in New York this week. He was returning from a trip to the mining district of Colorado—Cripple Creek.

Mr. Louis Hallem, of Baltimore (nee Mrs. Schwartz), was in New York for a short, and had a pleasant time while here.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS OF AMERICA—Accept our heartfelt thanks for the tokens of love which you have sent us. The burden of the hungry is being lightened, and joy and happiness shines in the eyes of the recipients of your bounty. But many had to stand back for there was not sufficient to alay the wants of all. We sincerely ask you to keep up your good work. Many of us will thus be saved from a death of agony and from the pangs of hunger.

Are we not tied to you through our common misfortune, though we are far away from each other? We feel that we are together, for among us deaf-mutes there is no dividing line of race or religion. In our silent world we are as one.

The cruel winter with its hardships is upon us! Five pounds of coal a week is allotted to us to prepare our frugal meals, and three pounds of coal each week to keep us from freezing. The proper nourishment is lacking to keep up our vitality! Unemployment is ever increasing! To make it short—we are lacking the bare necessities of life.

Christmas, the season of love and joy, is before our door, and we have nothing to offer our children.

Brothers and Sisters think of us in our need, and in extending a helping hand to us, you will be doing good to yourselves as well as to your Austrian Brothers and Sisters.

KARL ALTENACHINGER,
Editor Tastbistmen Rundschau.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE.

The Literary Society presented the following program on Friday evening, November 19th.

ESSAY—"Money or Us," by Mr. Alex. Rosen, '21.

DEBATE—"Resolved, That no legislative body should have any right to bar out from its meetings any of its members because of his sentiment." Affirmative, Mr. Lindholm, '23; Mr. Steinke, P.C. Negative, Mr. Teitelbaum, '23; Mr. Cusack, P.C.

DIALOGUE—"The Sky Pilot," by Messrs. Lucado, '23, and Skinner, P.C.

DECLAMATION—"The Charge of the Light Brigade," by Mr. Schraeger, '24.

Mr. Rosen tried to explain the present over-supply of paper money. His talk also dealt with the effect of the money supply upon the present market. He told how banks had been drawing the strings of their purse bags because of uncertain outlooks, and expressed his confidence that the near future would see American industry again flourishing.

The debate was warmly waged. The victory went to the negative side by a vote of 2 to 1. Mr. Schraeger delivered his piece with plenty of fire and spirit.

Friday evening, November 19th, the young women of the college had a "Silent Supper." Every Co-ed who let out a word was fined the stupendous sum of one cent. The proceeds went to the Helen Hughes Memorial Fund.

The two upper classes of the Kendall School enacted a few "Living Movies from American History," Saturday evening, November 20th. The audience, consisting mainly of Kendall Green residents and some outsiders, helped to pack the Kendall School Chapel to capacity. The scenes depicted incidents in American History such as "The Saving of Captain John Smith by Pocahontas," "The First Thanksgiving," "Washington and Lincoln" were also depicted. The proceeds amounted to about $20.00 and will go to the Near East Relief Fund.

On the same evening Professor Hotchkiss spoke in Chapel Hall on "Our Pilgrim Fathers." In view of the tercentenary celebrations going on all over the country in honor of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock, it was quite fitting to return to that phase of our history. Dr. Hotchkiss spoke interestingly and brought to light many hitherto little known facts about the Pilgrims.

Sunday afternoon, November 21st, Chapel Services were conducted by the Y. M. C. A. The feature of the program was the talk by Mr. Arthur Ward, Educational Director of the Y. M. C. A. in this city. Mr. Ward spoke on "Prayer." Dr. Hall interpreted.

Gallaudet, 13 Drexel Institute, o

Gallaudet played her last scheduled football game of the season against Drexel Institute at Philadelphia, November 20th, registering a victory. This was Gallaudet's third successful encounter this season, as against three defeats.

The Buff and Blue kicked off and the game began with a spurt by Drexel Institute. However the Philadelphia's were forced to resort to a punt on fourth down when they were well up towards their goal. Gallaudet received the ball and moved ahead, but also had to punt. This operation was repeated by Drexel. Gallaudet approached goal again, but here the pigskin went to the opposition, thanks to a fumble.

In the second period Drexel Institute's defense crumbled. Gallaudet used only four plays to carry the ball from midfield across the line. In the fourth play Seipp smashed through the opposition for a touchdown. Benedict kicked goal.

More fumbles followed on both sides. An attempted forward pass form Netusil to Benedict, who was over the line failed.

The second half opened with excellent playing by Bouchard, Seipp and Matthew, all of whom did good end running. The Buff and Blue tried forward passes, but they did not work.

In the last quarter Gallaudet made her second touchdown. End runs and plunges had brought them into the enemy's zone, within 5 yards of the cross bar. Seipp received the ball and again broke through the opposition for his second touchdown. Benedict missed goal.

In the remaining part of the game Gallaudet was about to increase her count by a third touchdown. Langenberg had intercepted the ball twice during Drexel forward passes. But here the game was called.

A review of Gallaudet's playing this year, with the stand against Susequehanna excepted, will not reveal any notable achievements. But from this it must not be deduced the season was unsatisfactory. If Gallaudet did not rise above her standard, neither did she fall down. Circumstances must be taken into account. Gallaudet gave up a number of veteran players last year, but was not compensated by much available material from the coming class. She was going through a period of transition. As a result she had to depend upon what remained of last year's team mainly.

The names of Bouchard and Seipp are easily preeminent. Both these men deserve most of the credit for Gallaudet's successes. With the Drexel game Bouchard ended his college football career. It was a career of distinction, and Gallaudet will have difficulty in replacing him next year.

The custom of electing the football captain for next season while the team was en route home, was not observed this time, as several of the players preferred to remain over in Philadelphia and nearby. The election will take place later.

OHIO.

(News items for this column may be sent to our Ohio News Bureau, care of Mr. A. B. Greener, 908 Franklin Ave., Columbus, O.)

DIED—November 18th, at Toledo, Ohio, Mrs. Walter S. Kridler, aged 38 years, 7 months, 18 days, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Greener.

"Leaves have their time to fall, And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath. And stars to set,—but all, Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death."

She was the youngest member of the family, and was born in Columbus, Ohio, March 25, 1887. She passed through the grades of the Public School of the city, including the High School, from which she graduated in 1905. She then entered the Ohio State University, finishing a four years course with the degree of B. A.

She was appointed a teacher in the Fremont, Ohio, High School the year following her graduation from the University, where she taught with unusual success.

Her cheery disposition, engaging manners, won for her the steadfast friendship of all with whom she came in contact, and it can truly be said: "None knew her but to love her, none named her but to praise." It was while teaching in Fremont that she formed the acquaintance of a young man, and their friendship later ripened into love, and culminated in marriage. The wedding took place at the home of her parents in Columbus, Ohio, September 1st, 1914.

Their future home was in Toledo up to the time of her death, and here she lived most happily, devoting her life to her family, rendering assistance and bringing sunshine in a charitable way to those who needed it, for she was a member of several societies engaged in relieving distress. Her health began to fail about two years ago, yet she never murmured nor slackened in her endeavors in behalf of others. The breakdown came three days before she breathed her last, surrounded by her husband and two sisters, whom besides her two little children, aged five and two years, her parents and a brother, and a large circle of friends, mourn her loss.

Funeral services were held at her late home, Sunday afternoon, the casket in which she lay being almost hidden with floral tributes from sympathizing friends.

Monday noon, her remains lay in the room in which a little over six years ago she was married. Here too, amidst bowers of flowers, and many sorrowing friends, the last sad rites were given, after which the remains were taken to Greenlawn Cemetery for interment.

Mrs. Edward Slack (nee Grace Munger), was a caller at the School Tuesday. She and her husband (bearing) were in the city for a few days visiting friends. Mr. Slack runs a summer resort near Sandusky. They came down by automobile, and are on their way to Florida to spend the winter.

Tuesday and Wednesday Columbus was visited by an eight inch snowfall, making the boys and girls happy. At this writing only a few spots here and there remain of it, and the weather is of the spring variety.

DAYTON NEWS.

Complimenting Miss Irene Krouse, who will become the bride of Stephen Miller, of Springfield, O., November 25th, the members of the Dayton Ladies' Aid Society entertained with a miscellaneous shower Saturday evening, at the home of Miss Carrie Lingle. Luncheon appointments were carried out in white and pink. On the table under a white bell, supported by a pink arch, stood a few bride and groom, exquisitely fashioned by Eva Berger Games were enjoyed and a dainty luncheon was served.

Mrs. John Rhamy will entertain with a shower and luncheon, at her home on Ferguson Avenue Tuesday evening, November 23d, honoring the bride elect.

Mrs. Nelson I. Snyder sent a birthday card of greeting to President-elect Harding, mailing it so he would receive it on his birthday. He answered some day received, before the returns of the election were in, and graciously thanked her for her good wishes. She was very happy to receive the letter from him.

Mr. Peter Gillooly and wife attended the recent football game, between the Bradley Eagles and Akron Silents, in which the former came out ahead, 24 to 20. Besides enjoying the game they were happy to meet deaf people from Akron, Cleveland, Canton, and other Ohio towns, some of whom were school-mates of Mr. Gillooly.

Mr. Gillooly was kept away from the late reunion, owing to rush orders in the tin mill where he is employed, making tin plate from which to make cans, in which food for the starving children in the Far East was to be sent.

The O. S. S. D. foot-ball team went over to Granville, Ohio, last Saturday, to play the Doane Academy, their ofttime opponents, a game. They came back with the score against them, 34 to 13. Not as bad as it was last year, when O. S. S. D. score was 0.

A class of some sixteen students in Sociology, from Ohio Wesleyan University, under their teacher, Prof. B. L. Melvin, were visitors at the school Tuesday. They went through the school-rooms, industrial departments and were present when the pupils marched into the dining room under the strains of drum and piano. The visitors were very much interested in all they saw. On departing each was presented with a copy of Superintendent Jones' Book "The Greatest Problem of the Race."

A. B. G.

BALTIMORE.

Over 125 mutes attended the Halloween Mask Ball held by the Baltimore Frats at Red Men's Hall. The scene was a merry one and the costumes so attractive, amusing and original, that the Judges, Mrs. Theis, Mrs. Boyle, Mr. Geo. Brown and others, experienced great difficulty in awarding the prizes. The prize winners were:

First, two most artistic costumes, Ray Kauffman, and Miss Alberta Weigand; second prize, W. G. Stone, for the ugliest costume; third prize, went to Herbert Leitch, for funny costume. The ball was engineered to a great success by Chairman W. G. Stone, who was ably supported by Messrs. Herbert Leitch, and Geo. M. Leitner.

Those who took part in the ball, donned their costumes again when Halloween gaily attained a high pitch of enthusiasm, on Monday, then on Saturday, on Baltimore Street. The carnival spirit reigned until way past midnight. Herbert Leitch got a prize in the shape of a large box of candy.

A very enjoyable time was had at the party given by the members at Grace and St. Peter's Parish House last week. They celebrated Rev. O. J. Whildin's fifty-first birthday, and a very handsome pocket book was presented to him, which was greatly appreciated by the clergyman. Several new games were tried and proved exciting for all. Refreshments were served to all. Mr. Geo. W. Leitner took charge of the affair, and at first he started it as a literary meeting, which turned into a big surprise to Rev. O. J. Whildin.

The Wanders under Captain Ray Kauffman met at Overlea terminal with clear skies. The route to be followed was through the Maryland School for the Colored Deaf and Blind across Parkville, and then to Hamilton. The hike covered six miles. They declared having a splendid time, and are anxious to have another hike before long.

Over 2500 members of the Adult Bible Class paraded in Frederick, in the fourth annual Frederick County Adult Sunday School. The Maryland State School for the Deaf, who won a victory over the Frederick High School Cadets last Spring, led the procession throughout the two mile hike and played the music too. Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Leitner were there and saw the parade and by the way Rev. Mr. Moylan, who has been convalescing at his home near Frederick, participated in the parade and seems to be greatly improved.

Mr. M. Boyle, formerly a Marylander, now of Canton, Ohio, came to Baltimore to be operated on, but the sight of a butcher knife changed his plans, and his now under treatment and is feeling better at this writing.

The great new plant of the Columbia Graphophone manufacturing Company, Orangeville, within city's line, is rapidly near completion and will begin its operation about December 1st and will employ over 6000. About twelve new industry plants are now built up around Baltimore. They are Springfield and Kelly Company, Chevrolet, Buick, General Electric Company, Globe Steel Company, and others, and it no doubt will attract the deaf from all over the parts of the United States.

Soldier, sailor, and civilian joined in the general celebration of Armistice Day. Uniformed men of the recent fighting forces held impromptu parade along Baltimore Street. Crowds turned out in force to see the parade. Most of the factories were in operation that day until 12 o'clock.

Reports from the deaf-mutes show that participation in athletics is growing steadily, and that practically every man is interested in basketball, bowling, indoor baseball, wrestling, or is busily training for some future athletic event. The benefit of athletics need not be limited to a few picked men, but can be made available to the average man, is shown by the fact that 7 out of 10 men in the deaf community are engaged in organized sport.

You readers see 70 per cent are now in organized athletics—viz., Basketball team, Manager Weinstein; Indoor Base Ball, Manager O. K. Price; Wrestling and Boxing, under the direction of Herbert Leitch and W. Kuhn; Bowling, Manager W. G. Stone; Wanderlust's club, Captain, Ray Kauffman; Golf, five members—Leitner, Stone, Leitch, Creager and Price; Marble Club (not round but square), Batechelor.

With the thermometer hovering about the freezing point yesterday suddenly, those deaf-mutes whom the cold snap has caught with empty cold bins were busy laying in fuel supplies, such as they were able to procure. Ye scribe will make an effort to see that the deaf families get coal before the winter starts to hold its cold grip over them.

The gunning season opened last week, and those who are fond of hunting, are now cleaning and polishing their guns. I fear they will finish their work at the same time the season closes.

Mrs. James Branflick on her way to Christ M. E. Church dropped on the pavement and was picked up by a stranger, and was taken to a nearby hospital. She is suffering from a stroke of paralysis on the left side.

Mrs. George M. Leitner, who has been in Pittsburgh among her relatives for three weeks, returned home. She seemed refreshed and benefited by the change of scene which the trip afforded her.

Miss Laura Weygadt, of Gettysburg, Pa., has been in Baltimore for several days, and was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Layden.

The Akron Silent Foot-ball played the Rex Athletic Club, chiefly composed of ex-Alle, Princeton and Georgetown players, at Washington, D. C., which attracted several deaf-mutes from Baltimore, and they staid over Saturday and Sunday. They reported that the Akron Silent team was a wonderful organization.

A Social given by Mrs. Geo. M. Leitner at Grace and St. Peter's Parish House, attracted over 35 mutes, and several games were played. There are 33 different cars running in Baltimore and marked 1 to 33. Deaf mutes were asked to name the cars belonging to the numerical cars, and few could tell more than 10. Mrs. Stone led the contest and won a prize. Refreshments were served to all.

Erudited, Eliminated, Quibbled

Two can play at a game. So let's quibble and see where we get off; be sure to put me off at the Nebraska Booth.

Your oralist persists in order to get the best results in the curriculum of his peculiar system of educating the deaf, signs of any and every sort must be eradicated, eliminated, or otherwise absolutely done away with, from his class-rooms; that is to say histories must be censored so that the signing of the Declaration of Independence and of the Magna Charta, and also of each and every other incident that marks human progress, must in no manner, shape or form bear the expression relating to signs; leastwise the poor backward deaf pupil, of which by the way it appears their number in oral schools is legion, may thereby and because of these awful wriggling of the fingers cause the pupil to fall short of oralistic educational valuations, and arithmetical signs and the signs of the Zodiac, and also the signs of the times, are sure to produce bedevilment in oral classrooms; wherefore should all signs and the language thereof be relegated to optional use of the adult deaf in their after-school life; but, on the contrary, indeed, the signing of the pay-roll on the part of your oralist is a pastime merely reserved for himself that has no bearing on oralistic values save "in hoc signo vinces."

It is a melancholy reality that I or any one else should indulge in quibbling in relation to the misfortunes of mankind, but the oralist is prone to forget he makes his living on the misfortune of deafness, and to assuage the suffering and disappointments of the growing deaf, he might give more respectful attention to the counsels of the adult deaf, who know what the needs are that the deaf child really wants during school term. I am myself afflicted with total deafness, but thanks to the helpfulness of the combined system, which the oralist is keen to eradicate or eliminate from the school-rooms, have been enabled, in common with thousands of others similarly stricken, and through training by sign-language similarly educated as myself to overcome this handicap of deafness and make our way in the world on equal footing to those enjoying the possession of all senses. As a boy I was placed in the foremost oral school of my time. Here no one from the principal down to the janitor could use or understand the sign-language, in which respect it appears to have been more ultra than the Nebraska laboratory, because its superintendent admits he can use and interpret the sign-language. To my knowledge every expedient and device was resorted to not only to eradicate, but to eliminate and also to shame the sign-language. And yet it failed, miserably failed. There is not a single graduate from that school that I know who feels that he or she was well served there. They all realize, to their great regret, that had the sign-language been employed in conjunction with oralism they would have received superior educational advantages, which they believe they have been cheated out of by being made victims of an impossible experiment. My own education was so pathetically deficient, that I was put under private tutelage and prepared for matriculation at Gallaudet College, where the sign-language was the medium for imparting instruction, and what I am today is due to the training obtained at the college. Herewith I offer myself to the oralist as a living illustration of what the sign-language can do in the way of uplifting the deaf and in the way of what oralism can do to keep them down.

I know of a great many other experiences that turned out like mine, but it is not necessary to prolong the argument with specimens of the success that invariably follow the use of the sign-language. They are of every day occurrence wherever the combined system prevails. Can the oralist offer parallel cases where oralism signally triumphed in the struggle for existence? The editor of this JOURNAL asks very pertinently where are the "brilliant examples" of oralism. He above every one else ought to know where they are if they exist, but it is evident from the tenor of his query that these are non-existent. I am sure if he was minded to disregard the sensibilities of the oralistic victims he could fill a page of the JOURNAL with the names of intellectual bankrupts, that would startle the public and forever silence the blatant demand for the weeding out of the sign-language. The oralist's prime objection to the sign-language in the class-room is that "it grows naturally." Precisely so—and the prime fault that the adult deaf, to a man, find against oralistic exercises is that they are artificial. It is quite beyond me that Mr. Booth is so much disturbed over the resolutions adopted at the Detroit Convention condemning his reference to the sign-language as a weed language. He has condescended to make editorial mention that the resolutions misconstrued his "extemporaneous discussion" at Mt. Airy, and has taken particular care to deny any desire to eradicate the sign-language, but only wants to eliminate it from the schools, because it has been found in his experience to be a deterrent to the acquisition of correct English on the part of deaf children at his school. He has, with much cunning, sought to soften the force of his remarks, by the general assertion that the "sign-language should be reserved for the optional use of the adult deaf in their after school life, for any purpose and to any extent that it may contribute to their pleasure and welfare." Such kindness is overwhelming. But the truth is, and Mr. Booth knows it very well, there was not a single misstatement or exaggeration in the Detroit resolution, and the fact that this is what makes the "galled jade wince."

Every sensible person acquainted with the affairs of the deaf will be able to estimate at its true value the Booth attack on the sign-language. The only gratifying consideration about such spiteful outbursts, is that they indicate a desperate fatuity on the part of the oralists which presages their downfall.

Undoubtedly Mr. Booth speaks as the mouthpiece of the oralistic clique—who, as I have endeavored to show in previous papers, and by their own admissions, are banded together in as cruel a conspiracy as was ever organized—a conspiracy to destroy the sign-language, the one solace vouchsafed by a benign Providence to His children of silence, that oralism may be vindicated.
